Estrellas de Agua, black and white photographs, 2021

I quench my thirst with water. Watch the motion of an American dipper bob up and down on a rock in a mountain stream. Or look at the stars emerge, as sunsets ebb, then sparkle in the dark skies. Through this sort of engagement with nature I cannot help but join the mystery, hope, and possibilities of the universe. These three photographs were all taken with the theme "The Space of Hope" in mind. Each image was captured at a different body of water. I would like you to join in the rhythm of the water. Perhaps just focus on one estrella (star) or possibly follow these estrellas de agua (water stars) to a place of quiet.
